Fractically No Supporting Orders—
St. Paul Suffers Severely—The Associated Banks Ready to Act.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—It is hardly necessary to recount to intelligent observers of stock market conditions the reasons for this morning's further violent break in prices. The intelligence of a serious change for the worse in the President's condition came altogether unexpectedly and the extremely gravenature of the relapse was better comprehended with the course of the morning. The speculation hung entirely upon the successive bulletins received from Buffalo setting forth the changes in the President's condition. It was realized that the latter, while desperale, was not altogether to note that the morning's official bulletins were supplemented by a perfect storm of various rumons, evidently set on foot by speculators of ghoulish propensities, who went to the extreme of reporting the actual decease of the sufferer at Buffalo.

on foot by speculators of globular of pensities, who went to the extreme of reporting the actual decease of the sufferer at Buffalo.

Local liquidation was in exceedingly large volume and appeared in every quarter of the market. Except in a few directions there was very little support, except that welling from the covering of short contracts, and, indeed, in the general circumstances of the case, the wisdom of introducing supporting orders at all is questioned.

It was officially stated by the clearing house committee that the situation required no further action on their part, but that the associated banks stood ready to act under the agreement arrived at last Saturday, when in their judgment action became necessary.

Sterling exchange weakened as a result of the advance in money, which, if maintained, is likely to result in importations of gold from Europe before the end of next week.

One of the severest losses shown in today's trading was in St. Paul. The declines, however, in Atchison, Union Pacific, Rock Island, Illinois Central, and other of the higher priced stocks were also severe, as were those in the Eries, the Southern Railway. Southern Pacific, and the lower priced stocks were also severe, as were those in the Eries, the southern Railway. It is remembered that the stock market did not recover, but continued to sag for a long time, and to a materially lower range of prices. As a matter of fact the greatest boom in the history of fact the greatest boom in the history of the stock market up to that time ended with the death of President Garfield. The boom that has been witnessed in the past five or six years has eclipsed that of twenty years ago in every way. Now, it is questioned, will another decline begin? Conservative interests point out the unquestioned fact that the present property of the country is much more solid than was that of two decades ago. They say that every condition is more favorable for a vast importance is the fact that the public does not at the present time own any very large proportion of the total stocks in the market this year, beginning with that in May have compelled the great financial interests to lake all the foating supply of securities. As an element of strength in the situation.

The Decline of Timidity.

Man having lost his exclusive privilege as provider for womankind seems also in danger of losing his prerogative as a pro-tector of the sex. One reads every day of women fighting single-handed against burglars, flames, and that still greater burglars, flames, and that still greater evil, a delinquent suitor. The Evelinas and Cecilias of a few years ago swooned at the sight of a burglar, were equally helpless upon occasions of conflagration, and permitted unrequited love to rob them of their sieep and their bloom. But now all such seeming disasters are looked upon as opportunities for "self-revelation" and "individual development." and to miss them is to arrest the growth of the soul. The charm of this "caimly unafraid" damsel of today is that she does not wear her courage upon her sleeve, but keeps it hidden behind the shyest of demeanors. Of course there are still many Miss Muffits who object to the close proximity of spiders and who behave in the time-honored fashion in the presence of this insect, but let the spider assume the proportions of a dragon and they are ready to share with St. George the honors of putting him down. So far woman has not asserted her right to the privilege of protecting the St. Georges from modern dragons, but with her growing distinction as an athlete and her repeated exhibitions of moral fearlessness it may be expected that these gentlemen will soon look to her for such preservation.—Chicago Tribune.
